GATES TO MIDNIGHT

 Dreyg > Dreyg > World Atlas > Cities & Landmarks > Abyonis > Gates To Midnight

A temple of glorious lusts located within the Ra Fallen kingdom of Abyonis. Where the worship of the body is explored in glorious touch, music and the unleashed carnal desires of the patrons. This fine establishment is not exclusive to Ra Fallen guests, many travel from across Dreyg for a single night of passion.

The Ra Fallen are known for their impressively tall stature, their beautifully carved physiques and unbridled strength paired with equally formidable stamina. Many Ra Fallen can handle a blade with the precision and care a painter holds their brush, their control over the muscles within their body is a strong inherited feature of these natural born warriors but there are those that choose to bless the world with their talents in the form of sexual entertainment.

WITHIN THE GATES

Within the Gates to Midnight splendor house one may be introduced to a Midnight Mistress who will seek to pair up the guest with their chosen desires, asking such personal questions that their smooth tongues can uncover- even from the most closed book personalities become undone. Some say they are blessed with boons from a lesser god only they are permitted to speak the name of.

From Midnight Mistress to the Midnight Matron, a position filled by any gender. Most will be flexible in their own personal desires but some may specialize in very niche pleasures that others may find themselves seeking.

The establishment offers private rooms, each of which are spacious and themed to the finest of Ra Fallen culture, from the art upon the walls to the silks and pillows that cover the room. Restraints and swings are but a common feature though nothing to the extreme of more Coerh-aligned lusts but that is not to say the more extreme requests cannot be fulfilled.

The art of changing one's gender/genitalia through piercings have its golden origin within the gates.

JOINING MIDNIGHT

Those that seek employment at this fine establishment are typically those from wealthy houses, those that are too far down in the line of succession to ever achieve much. Although, even the lowest peasant can try to join. For in the end their beauty must be judged as worth the attention of the gods.

The hopeful initiate enters a trial where they are upon a sacrificial slab of carved rock that was worked upon during the creation of Abyonis, the slab had been used to sacrifice innocent blood to create protective spells across the land to shield the Ra Fallen capital from outside chaotic forces.

Now it has a new purpose, claimed by a lesser god of untold lusts and persuasion. The initiate will lay upon it and should they be given the attention of the shadowy figure then they are judged worthy of a god's attention.

Very few within all of Dreyg can say they slept with a lesser god but each member of the Gates to Midnight have that pleasure and thus many devout followers will slave away, earning what they can... just for a single night. There have yet to be any complaints.
